in early 2018 the spectacular collapse of nirav modi s firestar diamonds international once poised to become india s first global luxury brand sent shockwaves through the country s diamond industry and banking system accused of defrauding banks of us 1 8 billion modi s downfall cast a harsh spotlight on an entire business community and ignited an international scandal through personal encounters sharp interviews and meticulous research this gripping account unravels the astonishing twists in the nirav modi saga from his beginnings as a third generation diamantaire apprenticing under his uncle mehul choksi to building a worldwide empire with stores in london new york and hong kong modi appeared to have it all yet behind the façade of success lay a reclusive man with a taste for the high life one whose ambitions may have pushed him too far flawed vividly chronicles the meteoric rise of a global player and his dramatic fall from grace arresting and thought provoking it raises crucial questions about how one man s relentless pursuit of success can bring an entire system to the brink of collapse in a giant step toward managing today s pollution problems more effectively this report lays out a framework to coordinate an interdisciplinary and international investigation of the chemical composition and cycles of the troposphere the approach includes geographical surveys field measurements the development of appropriate models and improved instrumentation there has been much polemic about affluence consumption and the global environment for some observers consumption is at the root of global environmental threats wealthy individuals and societies use far too much of the earth s resource base and should scale back their appetites to preserve the environment for future generations and allow a decent life for the rest of the world other observers see affluence as the way to escape environmental threats economic development increases public pressure for environmental protection and makes capital available for environmentally benign technologies the arguments are fed by conflicting beliefs values hopes and fearsâ but surprisingly little scientific analysis this book demonstrates that the relationship of consumption to the environment needs careful analysis by environmental and social scientists and conveys some of the excitement of treating the issue scientifically it poses the key empirical questions which kinds of consumption are environmentally significant which actors are responsible for that consumption what forces cause or explain environmentally significant consumption how can it be changed the book presents studies that open up important issues for empirical study are there any signs of saturation in the demand for travel in wealthy countries what is the relationship between environmental consumption and human well being to what extent do people in developing countries emulate american consumption styles the book also suggests broad strategies that scientists and research sponsors can use to better inform future debates about the environment development and consumption report on how the first wave of covid 19 impacted on smallholder farmers in northern shan state in myanmar the study examines the interactions of reduced border trade remittances and contracted labour markets on household food security nutrition and land tenure in turn tenure insecurity in rural areas may deepen the effects of covid 19 as most rural people struggle to sustain their livelihoods through access to land and other natural resources this is relevant as many ethnic groups in northern shan state continue to manage their land through customary tenure systems that are not fully recognized by state authorities
