bronze ornaments of the nordic bronze age were elaborate objects that served as status symbols to communicate social hierarchy an interdisciplinary investigation of the artefacts dating from 1500 1100 bc was adopted to elucidate their manufacture and origin resulting in new insights into metal craft in northern europe during the bronze age

a detailed and useful study on the previously neglected phase of metallurgical adoption in denmark c 2350 1500 bc it presents a coherent analysis of the entire corpus of danish metal finds from this period with especial emphasis on establishing an accurate chronology based on several qualitative and quantitative analyses of the data conclusions drawn are then used to discuss the socio political and economic structure of this important phase of man s development the southern caucasus is a region of great historical cultural and strategic importance which means that it has become an indispensable research field for most of the social sciences particularly archaeology however despite its rich potential research in the areas of modern day georgia armenia azerbaijan nakhichevan north western iran and north eastern turkey has been inadequate when compared with other important culture basins such as mesopotamia and the mediterranean in october 2012 atatürk university in erzurum north eastern anatolia turkey with the patronage of the eurasian silk road universities consortium esruc hosted a symposium of academics from more than 120 science and education institutions around the world to discuss opinions and share information about cultures in this region from its earliest times to the middle ages within the scope of ancient history archaeology art history and ethno archaeology this two volume publication is a compilation of 75 articles which were evaluated and selected by an academic committee from contributors who presented their academic papers at the symposium this volume assembles contributions on the place of agricultural production in the context of the urbanization of late bronze and early iron age mediterranean concentrating on the second millennium aegean and the protohistoric north western mediterranean this book provides unique insights into late neolithic life its organization and its economy made possible by an altogether exceptional collection of recent archaeological findings in south scandinavia from longhouses with sunken floors dating from this period through analysis and interpretation of these comprehensive materials danish archaeologist john simonsen presents brand new findings essential for many wider interpretations of this crucial and fascinating transitional period from the stone age to the bronze age c 2350 c 1600 bc the basic materials presented and discussed in daily life at the turn of the neolithic were mainly found during new archaeological excavations in the central part of the limfjord region of denmark but in terms of the wider perspectives and considerations often relate to the entire region and in several respects also to south scandinavia and beyond a reissue of a 1939 guide to kansas compiled as part of the federal writers project during the depression years providing information not only about the attractions of the state but serving as a cultural chronicle of an earlier time
